

UNEXPECTED ENCOUNTERS

It is seven o'clock in the morning, David Russ a nineteen year old man is sitting on a rock beside a lake somewhere in Southern Ireland. He is drinking water from his water bottle.

David is American; he is on holiday and is discovering for the first time the beautiful lakes of Connemara. He has a camera and he likes taking pictures of the fauna and the flora of this region.

Suddenly David feels something rubbing against his right leg. He looks down and sees a white and ginger cat. David pets its head; the cat starts to purr. He looks around to find the owner of the cat but there is nobody. David walks away ; the cat follows him...

A quarter of an hour later he comes across a pony .It is grazing peacefully some fresh grass on the slope along the footpath. David pets its head and decides to take a picture of it;he then looks around to find the owner but there is nobody. David walks away; the pony follows him...

A quarter of an hour later he sees a chalet... In front of it there is a woman who is feeding a rabbit in a cage with a carrot; she sees David, the pony and the cat walking towards her. She recognizes the animals, smiles and says –“ Thank you very much for bringing my animals back”.
